This fan-fiction article, Tenka, was written by Witcher190. Please do not fiction without the writer's permission.

Tenka is a mythical hanni - okamese sword wielded by the legendary Mejay Har-m-ankh-amen. Legends say that it was forged with an unknown metal, which had opposite effects to the dimeritium which shone like a rainbow.

In addition to that, it is also mentioned, that due to this condition, the sword could achieve altered states, causing it to throw lightning, become its blade in fire, or even freeze.

It is said that the sword was buried with its wielder, other legends affirm that it was lost in the desert and that whoever finds it will be able to conquer the world.

Trivia ✎

- Part of the lore of the sword, is inspired by the Tenka - Goken swords.
- Also takes inspiration from the lightbringer sword from ASOIAF and the Swords of Eden from Assasin Creed.
- The sword came as an okamese sword to Hannu through trade with Feiwo. And then it was reforged until it had the form in which the legendary Mejay Har-m-ankh-amen used it.
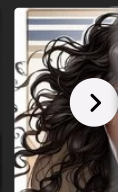

Notes ✎

- This metal, contrary to the dimeritium, my idea is that it was exclusive to the Okami Islands. Which would allow them to have a powerful imperial era by using it as a tool of conquest.
